

A third writer though not a historian adtkd to the fame of Moulth* Oir.smo under I Vsulerius.

Conatantinc of Africa wa« burn in Carthage;

after long journeying in Kgypt :iiu ^ India, he brought his medical Iramtng to Italy, and afc

Koggio attracted the friendly notice of (UuaconU

The, Duke made hint his svccvlary in 1063, but after aonw time Constant tnc retired to Monte

Ca&dno when? he died in 1087, The African

was one. of those scholars through whom the learning of Greeks anil AraKs was made mvmihlo to the I^atm worUl. In addition u> ttrigiuul works upon medicine he translated into ! *atin from

Arabic the? Viaticum of the Moslem or Hebrew

doctor Ymtitt*, and the Thtwka rl Praetka of

Hali-Ahbajj,¹

A great xvKtortition of the abbey Iniildinp was carried oul t»y 1 >in4drrius, The ancient C'hurch of Kt, Benedict, all Init doMtroyrtl by l«nutmrcln

an<i Baract*ns, wits fMtrtially reranrcd by the abbot

John I» («>05), The work witHcumftNed by llemda-

riua, in it*66, and drdicntrd in grt'iit fwmp by Alexander II, in 1071.' Afu*r lh« dedicittkm, the ablH)t was ablti, thititigli the gemirosily of Mauro, a rich nutrdiatit «f AnuiU't, to rrtnvn the work with those Iminxt* doors which were then only to bi* protntrt*il from (\ instiiiiitRopIe, Thts art of casting bronwt mitt graving uinm that

, ttrvttf tldm «sl«rt» p, jjfc« m Mmi <,«««» $, 43 Tlwchurc by «ftht|«wkc lit j4|«